

CORPSAFRICA 2025 ANNUAL IMPACT REPORT

A MESSAGE FROM OUR CEO

Dear Friends,

Every year, I am reminded that meaningful change often begins with the simple act of listening. CorpsAfrica Volunteers enter communities without predetermined projects. They build relationships, learn what matters to residents, and work with them to turn their ideas into action.

That commitment was at the heart of our work again this year. Across 11 African countries, 460 CorpsAfrica Volunteers facilitated 9,469 projects spanning food security, education, clean water, employment, health, environmental sustainability, and more ... all shaped by local priorities.

This approach is especially important as the international development landscape continues to change and resources become more constrained. The need for locally-led, cost-effective, and sustainable development models is growing. CorpsAfrica offers a powerful example: building on local strengths and co-creating solutions that communities will sustain long after a Volunteer leaves.

I am incredibly proud of what our Volunteers and communities have accomplished by working together. I am equally proud of how service transforms our Volunteers, building the confidence, leadership skills, and experience they will carry into their careers.

And many more young Africans are ready to serve. More than 15,000 applied to CorpsAfrica this year. This is a powerful reminder that Africa has no shortage of young people ready to lead and help shape the future of their countries.

To our Volunteers, alumni, communities, staff, partners, and donors: thank you. Your belief in young African leaders and community-led development makes this work possible.

We have seen what can happen when young people are given the opportunity to serve and communities are trusted to lead. Now is the time to take that model even further.

With gratitude,

Liz Fanning
CorpsAfrica Founder and CEO

ABOUT CORPSAFRICA

CorpsAfrica is an international development organization that recruits, trains, and sends young college-educated Africans to serve in rural communities in 11 African countries. Volunteers live alongside residents, listen first, and help turn local ideas into small-scale, high-impact projects that strengthen communities, expand economic opportunity, and improve lives.

THE CORPSAFRICA APPROACH

Our model puts young Africans and local communities at the center of development. Rather than arriving with predetermined projects, Volunteers work alongside residents to identify local needs and develop solutions together.

- Youth Leadership Through Service: Young Africans gain hands-on leadership experience while contributing their skills, energy, and knowledge in service to their own countries.
- Community-Led Development: Communities identify their priorities and play a central role in designing, implementing, and sustaining projects.
- Human-Centered Design: Volunteers listen first and work with residents to develop practical solutions grounded in their experiences, needs, and ideas.
- Asset-Based Community Development: Volunteers help communities identify and build on their existing skills, knowledge, relationships, and resources.
- Small-Scale, Sustainable Solutions: Most projects cost less than $8,000 and are designed so communities can continue benefiting from and managing them after a Volunteer's service ends.

Together, these principles are advancing a pan-African movement rooted in volunteerism, youth leadership, and community-led development.

WHERE WE WORK

VOLUNTEER SPOTLIGHT

Benjamin Builds Opportunity Through Aquaculture

Ghana

In Kpeve Tornu, Ghana, declining fish stocks and changing weather patterns were making it harder for families to rely on traditional fishing. CorpsAfrica Volunteer Benjamin worked with elders, women traders, and youth to identify another way forward: tilapia aquaculture. Together, they mobilized more than $4,100 in CorpsAfrica and community contributions to establish community-managed fish cages stocked with more than 20,000 tilapia fingerlings.

In its first year, the project's first two harvests produced 2,088 kilograms of tilapia and generated approximately $8,556 in revenue. Women expanded their income through fish processing, smoking, resale, and fish-oil production, while residents gained new aquaculture and business skills.

Yusupha Helps Gardens and Livelihoods Grow

The Gambia

In Jammeh Kunda, The Gambia, CorpsAfrica Volunteer Yusupha worked with women vegetable growers who identified reliable access to water as a major barrier to expanding their livelihoods. The 38 gardeners often began drawing water manually from wells as early as 5:00 or 6:00 a.m., limiting how many vegetable beds they could cultivate. Working with the community, CorpsAfrica, and the Steevort Foundation, Yusupha helped build a new borehole that now provides reliable irrigation for the community garden.

With easier access to water, the women are growing more onions, tomatoes, and other vegetables while increasing household income. To sustain the project, community members contribute monthly to a maintenance fund, help manage the borehole, and receive training in water conservation and sustainable gardening, giving the community the resources and systems to keep the garden growing.

CORPSAFRICA PITCH DAY EVENTS

The 2026 Pitch Day once again demonstrated what is possible when Volunteers and communities have the opportunity to lead. From March to July, we hosted Pitch Days across Ethiopia, Morocco, Ghana, Kenya, Senegal, Malawi, Rwanda, South Africa, The Gambia, and Côte d'Ivoire, highlighting locally identified challenges and community-driven solutions to partners, supporters, and potential investors.

With 73 CorpsAfrica Volunteers and 1,264 attendees across all country offices, Volunteers and community members engaged directly with development partners, government representatives, embassies, the private sector, and other stakeholders to get their projects funded and sustained for the betterment of the communities future.

In Ghana, for example, six Volunteers presented initiatives spanning poultry, catfish and sheep farming to irrigation, corn milling, seedling production, and water-system expansion.

Pitch Day translated into tangible support. Country offices reported raising $107,335 for Volunteer-led community driven projects. Morocco, Malawi, Rwanda, and The Gambia surpassed their individual targets, collectively raising $94,344–$30,460 above their combined target of $63,884.

Pitch Day 2026 was about more than fundraising. It's a showcase of community-led development, partnership-building opportunity, and a celebration of CorpsAfrica's impact. By bringing Volunteers, communities, partners, and supporters together, the 2026 events demonstrated the power of turning local ideas into visible, investable solutions and strengthened CorpsAfrica for even greater impact in the years ahead.

PARTNERSHIP SPOTLIGHT

CorpsAfrica/Rwanda and Trinity Metals Build New Livelihoods

Rwanda 🇷🇼

CorpsAfrica/Rwanda partnered with Trinity Metals Group in 2025 through a $180,000 agreement to help communities around Rwanda's Rutongo Mine region transition from unauthorized mining to safe, sustainable livelihoods. In its first year, the partnership created 1,195 employment opportunities and helped 409 unauthorized miners transition to sustainable livelihoods. More than 6,800 community members received training, while 15 savings groups were established and accumulated more than RWF 30 million ($20,433).

The project further supported economic opportunity and environmental sustainability through the distribution of more than 2,300 livestock and 125,000 trees. In recognition of this work, CorpsAfrica/Rwanda received Trinity Metals' "Partner of the Year" award at its annual Safety, Health, Environment, and Community Summit.
